

CITATION EXERCISE #1

ENGL 102.1

WRITING AND RESEARCH

This Citation Exercise is designed to show that you understand both MLA and APA style in-text citations. Be sure to review the Citation Information handout from the instructor (or on the class website) as well as your handbook for how in-text citations should be formatted in both MLA and APA.

The sources being cited are given to you on the FINAL PAGE of this exercise.

Questions 1-4 are 10 points each – 5-15 are 6 points each

You have the following direct quote from page 32 of Brian Wansink's book:

1. The MLA in-text citation for this direct quote would be:

Brian Wansink indicates that "The best way to trim 100 or 200 calories a day is to do it in a way that doesn't make you feel deprived" (_____).

2. The APA in-text citation for this direct quote would be:

Brian Wansink (_____) indicates that "The best way to trim 100 or 200 calories a day is to do it in a way that doesn't make you feel deprived"(_____).

You have the following paraphrase from page 174 of Brian Wansink's book:

3. The MLA in-text citation for this paraphrase would be:

The names that we give food make a difference in how we perceive them. Young children willingly eat broccoli if it's called "dinosaur trees" or peas if they are called "power peas"(_____).

4. The APA in-text citation for this paraphrase would be:

The names that we give food make a difference in how we perceive them. Young children willingly eat broccoli if it's called "dinosaur trees" or peas if they are called "power peas" (_____).

The following paraphrase from page 65 of the book references the author in the sentence:

5. The MLA in-text citation for this paraphrase would be:

Brian Wansink has done extensive laboratory research that proves that people will drink less of anything if it's in a tall, slender glass instead of a shorter, wider cup (_____).

6. The APA in-text citation for this paraphrase would be:

Brian Wansink(_____) has done extensive laboratory research that proves that people will drink less of anything if it's in a tall, slender glass instead of a shorter, wider cup.

This short direct quote is from paragraph 2 of Richard Paul's essay:

7. The MLA in-text citation for this quote would be:

A writing course needs to be focused on teaching "writing as a form of thinking" (_____).

8. The APA in-text citation for this quote would be:

A writing course needs to be focused on teaching "writing as a form of thinking" (_____).

CITATION EXERCISE #1
ENGL 102.1
WRITING AND RESEARCH

The following idea is paraphrased from page 169 of Locke and Weinberger’s chapter from the book The Cluetrain Manifesto. How do you cite multiple authors?:

9. The MLA in-text citation for this paraphrase is:

You need to hear the questions people mean, not necessarily the questions that they ask, if you want a meaningful conversation (_____).

10. The APA in-text citation for this paraphrase is:

You need to hear the questions people mean, not necessarily the questions that they ask, if you want a meaningful conversation (_____).

The following paraphrase is from paragraph 1 of Julian Burnside’s essay “Fading Distinctions.” How do you cite an article when there are multiple articles by the same author?:

11. The MLA in-text citation for this paraphrase is:

The difference between “fragile” and “frail,” even though both evolved from the same Latin root word of “fragilis,” shows the complexity and richness of the English vocabulary (_____).

12. The APA in-text citation for this paraphrase is:

The difference between “fragile” and “frail,” even though both evolved from the same Latin root word of “fragilis,” shows the complexity and richness of the English vocabulary (_____).

The following paraphrase is from page 8 of the article “FOXic Waste.” How do you cite an article with no listed author?:

13. The MLA in-text citation for this paraphrase is:

According to a recent study of 3000 Americans by the Program on International Policy Attitudes to review media awareness, Fox News audiences were 4 times more likely than NPR/PBS audiences to have inaccurate or distorted knowledge about America’s foreign policies (_____).

14. The APA in-text citation for this paraphrase is:

According to a recent study of 3000 Americans by the Program on International Policy Attitudes to review media awareness, Fox News audiences were 4 times more likely than NPR/PBS audiences to have inaccurate or distorted knowledge about America’s foreign policies (_____).

This paraphrase is from page 267 of an article by Howard Zinn that’s been reprinted from an earlier collection of essays. Pay attention to how you do the date:

15. The APA in-text citation for this paraphrase is:

The Ludlow Massacre is but one example of how people in power can use manipulation of how an event is reported to make sure that things do not change for the common man, and power remains with the people who already have the power and wealth in a society (_____).

CITATION EXERCISE #1
ENGL 102.1
WRITING AND RESEARCH
Works Cited

- Burnside, Julian. "Death Sentence." The Vocabula Review. 27 Jan. 2004. Vocabula Communications Company. 27 Jan. 2004. <<http://www.vocabula.com/2004/VRJAN04Burnside.asp>>
- . "Fading Distinctions." Julian Burnside – Language, Arts, Law. 5 Apr. 2002. Julian Burnside. 27 Jan. 2004. <<http://www.julianburnside.com>> Path: Language; Articles about words and language; Fading Distinctions.
- "FOXic Waste." The American Prospect Nov 2003: 7-8.
- Locke, Christopher and David Weinberger. "EZ Answers." The Cluetrain Manifesto. Rick Levine, Christopher Locke, Doc Searls and David Weinberger. Cambridge, MA: Perseus, 2000. 161-172.
- Paul, Richard. "Critical Thinking: Teaching Students the Logic of Writing." Journal of Developmental Education 23.3(2000): 36- . Ebscohost. Central Community College, Grand Island, NE. 27 Jan. 2004 <<http://search.epnet.com>>
- Wansink, Brian, Ph.D. Mindless Eating: Why We Eat More Than We Think. New York: Bantam, 2006.
- Zinn, Howard. "The Ludlow Massacre." The Politics of History. Boston: Beacon, 1970. Rpt. In Everything You Know Is Wrong: A Disinformation Guide to Secrets and Lies. Ed. Russ Kick. New York: Disinformation Company, 2002. 258-267.

---

References

- Burnside, J. (2004, January 27). Death sentence. Retrieved January 27, 2004 from The Vocabula Review website: <http://www.vocabula.com/2004/VRJAN04Burnside.asp>
- Burnside, J. (2002, April 5). Fading distinctions. Retrieved January 27, 2004 from the Julian Burnside – Language, Arts, Law website: <http://www.julianburnside.com>
- FOXic waste. (2003, November). The American Prospect, 14, 7-8.
- Locke, C. & Weinberger, D. (2000). EZ answers. In R. Levine, C. Locke, D. Searls & D. Weinberger, The cluetrain manifesto (pp.161-172). Cambridge, MA: Perseus.
- Paul, R. (2000). Critical thinking: Teaching students the logic of writing. Journal of Developmental Education, 23(3), 36- . Retrieved January 27, 2004 from Ebscohost database.
- Wansink, B., Ph.D. (2006). Mindless eating: Why we eat more than we think. New York: Bantam Books.
- Zinn, H. (2002). The Ludlow massacre. In R. Kick, ed., Everything you know is wrong: A Disinformation guide to secrets and lies. (pp. 258-267). New York: Disinformation Company. (Reprinted from The politics of history, 1970, Boston: Beacon)